This centre is one of London's co-working and events spaces for enterprising people working in the built environment sector. Members will benefit from opportunities to collaborate with others in the sector - to grow their business, meet with clients, pitch for work, develop skills and knowledge, and socialise in a central London setting. The member events programme has been developed to keep clients in touch with emerging trends in the sector and will consider some of the themes impacting the capital's built environment. Members of this centre are architects, landscape designers, planning consultants, engineers, academics, developers and entrepreneurs. They are young businesses with new ideas about how to address the city's problems, and the ethos reflects that drive.
