London WC2H 9AT

The office is located in the lovely area of Covent Garden, Central London. There are excellent transport links with Leicester Square, Covent Garden and Tottenham Court Road underground stations within 5 minutes walk, as well as various bus routes. The north side of Covent Garden is known as Seven Dials, consisting of independent shops, cafes and restaurants, great for lunch breaks and entertaining clients. The local business community consists of professional services, such as accountants and lawyers, mixed with the creative industries, with Soho nearby, graphic designers, architects and media companies.

The office is a bright modern space on the top floor of a traditional building in the heart of Covent Garden, with great transport links. Large desks and lockable storage make it a comfortable place to work, with a private balcony for short breaks with a view out into Neals Yard below. A kitchenette complete with fridge is useful for tea/coffee and lunch with a communal table for lunch or break-out space. The office consists internally of two floors shared with an architects practice and interior design studio. Please note the office is on the top floor of the building with access via stairs, disabled access is not possible.
